COMMENTS:

Tori says: WZZA Radio, like all others, has only twenty-four hours in each day, so we do our best to use the time wisely. That's why there are only a few syndications that we keep. One of those is Walt Baby Love's Gospel Traxx. Walt has been around for a long time precisely because he knows how to put together a radio show. It's easy to see that he enjoys what he's doing, and that he puts the time in to give our listeners a quality experience. Another one we air each week is my pal Postman's "I Want To Praise You" which sounds like some brothers sitting around in maybe a barber shop just choppin' it up, while playing some wonderfully inspiring gospel music. I especially enjoy Hallarin or however he spells it, because it's like getting that inspirational Sunday school lesson. And each Saturday evening, WZZA Radio listeners get to hear Jackson Brown's Southern Soul Mix. We began airing it not because I love all Southern Soul, but because I like Jackson, and Jackson knows Black Radio audiences. He's also a cool cat who keeps me updated about the latest releases. Jackson is family and our listeners like his taste in music. Much love to all of y'all. Now I gotta call my brisket guy to get hooked up for after the Labor Day parade! TCB
